Starting a business is one of the most exciting things you can do as a young person! I have started my own profitable business and nothing beats being able to help people while earning your own money. I would love to help other young people start their own businesses as they learn about helping others through their product or service.

I have had the privilege of growing up in a family of entrepreneurs (both my father and several uncles have started and sold successful businesses), starting my own business (a tutoring company that paid for 90% of my law school tuition), and running entrepreneurship programming for college students. Given my personal experience, I know I can help young business owners learn the basics of entrepreneurship and embrace lifelong learning.
